

In a beautiful, big cloud a boy named Peter was exploring. To his amazement he saw a bush with a door and a broken keypad. Peter typed some random numbers into the broken keypad but suddenly the magic, secret door opened! Peter's face went red and his thumbs were wiggling he went inside the crazy, gold door and found out he was in a secret garden! All he could see was poisonous purple ivy, huge unusual marble fountains and yellow regrown buttercups. Peter saw lots of robots that disappeared in a nanosecond. In the garden it was as hot as lava and as big as Jupiter. "This is amazing"! shouted Peter. It was to foggy to see, so he was trapped.
