

The journey of the Sun.

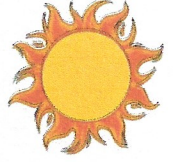

I woke from my sleep, rising like a balloon in the sky,

I peeked through the marshmallow clouds like a Spotlight Shining on a stage,

I burned away the haze to reveal my full colour,

I watched the crystal Sapphire Sea and heated the waves on the shore,

I covered the earth with my blanket of warmth,

I scorched the sand like fire from a dragon,

I ravaged the seastells and barnacles,

I stoked the rocks like coal in a fireplace,

I reigned the island for another day,

I yawned and stretched my arms along the turquoise sea,

I cooled and rested and laid on the horizon drifting off to sleep.

